

WARP, in the manufactures, is the threads, whether of silk, wool, linen, hemp, &c. that are extended lengthwise on the weaver's loom ; and a cross which the workman by means of his shuttle passes the threads of the wool, to form a cloth, ribband, fustian, or other matter.